HOLIDAY SCANNER LISTENING

If you live in the New York metro area, Macy's Thanksgiving Day parade begins the Holiday Season and "Black Friday" marks the beginning of endless traffic jams in and around the major NY / NJ shopping malls.

In past years the Parade communications took place on the Macy's nationally assigned channels. Two years ago we saw extensive use of Nextel and the scanning community heard little.

Last year we were able to identify a few frequencies Macy's balloon handlers used that appeared to be leased commercial repeaters [461.3500 & 451.8500]. Whether these will be used again is unknown, but a good starting place would be to listen to these frequencies and scan that part of the band.

If you are able to identify any active channels, please take a moment and e-mail us. I'll do my best to monitor the e-mail and redistribute to all on the list.

During the NYC Marathon I personally found several channels in the 496 MHz band. These appear to be temporary media assignment for such events. Scan this part of the band – you may be surprised at what you find!

496.1625	496.2375	496.3500
496.775	496.825

And finally, attached to this issue of the Urban DX'er is our annual list of frequencies for shopping malls and department stores. Knowing where to listen may greatly improve your shopping experience when your significant other asks you to go shopping! As with monitoring all communications, be discrete! Headphones are common ware today, so everyone will think you're listening to your IPOD. This year, I'd like to offer a special thanks to "Kevin". As you will see, this years list includes more listings and many of the missing PL's are now available. This was largely due to the numerous updates he sent us.
